Preparation

- 1 Peel and roughly chop the onion, garlic and ginger. Place them in a small blender with 4 tablespoons of cold water and blend briefly. Add the turmeric, 4 more teaspoons of cold water and a grinding of salt and black pepper and blend again.
- 2 Gently cook the onion mixture in a small saucepan for 10-15 minutes, stirring occasionally,

- 3 Meanwhile, trim any fat from the beef and cut into bite sized cubes.
- 4 In a large pan, sauté the beef in the melted butter and a splash of oil for 6–8 minutes then remove to a plate with a slotted spoon; you will probably need to do this in two batches.
- 5 Grind the cumin and fennel seeds and the ground coriander together in a pestle and mortar. Add to the onion mixture and cook gently for 2 minutes.
- 6 Put the beef back in the pan with the onion mixture, canned tomatoes, garam masala, sugar, a tablespoon of lemon juice and a little zest. Pour in the hot beef stock, stir and heat. Cover and simmer gently for about an hour, stirring occasionally.
- 7 When you are ready to serve, stir in 2 tablespoons of yoghurt and garnish with a handful of finely chopped coriander.
